THE NIXON YEARS

VIETNAM WAR ENDS

March 1973 (AP)—The U.S. Command officially ended more than a decade of military intervention in Vietnam on Thursday, folding its colors and sending its last 2,500 men homeward or to other bases in Southeast Asia. The last American troops left Vietnam virtually around the clock. Planes took off from Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base from midnight on. The last flight was due out by dusk, ending the role of the U.S. Command that once had half a million American soldiers under its orders.

Some troops simply transferred to U.S. bases in Thailand where the United States will continue to maintain a strong air arm to discourage any mass offensive in South Vietnam by the North Vietnamese.

By the time Americans stopped participating in the fighting, nearly 46,000 had died on Vietnam battlefields.

WATERGATE

NIXON RESIGNS

1974 (AP)—Although he contended to the end he had done no wrong deserving the destruction of his presidency, two years of scandal had brought him to the brink of impeachment, stripped of his most effective friends. Even his staunchest defenders began deserting the embattled President when he admitted he had withheld evidence from Congress, the public and his own lawyer. A tidal wave of reason followed that Nixon admission on Aug. 5, and his acknowledgement that he had given orders within a week after the June 1972 break-in that the Central Intelligence Agency be used to blunt the FBI investigation. Nixon also disclosed that he was told six days after the break-in that his campaign director and former attorney general, John N. Mitchell, may have had some prior knowledge of the plans to wiretap Democratic headquarters. This stood in stark contradiction with numerous statements by Nixon that he had known nothing about a cover-up until informed by then-White House legal counsel John W. Dean III on March 21, 1973.

More than eight members of his White House staff had been sentenced to jail. The subsequent Nixon admission of his involvement in a scheme to head off the FBI investigation, plus an earlier disclosure that key tapes were missing and an 18½-minute segment of another was blank, seemed to insure his fall.

NIXON PARDONED

Sept 1974 (AP)—President Ford granted Richard M. Nixon "a free, full and absolute pardon for any criminal conduct during his presidency, and Nixon responded with a statement of remorse at "my mistakes over Watergate." "I feel that Richard Nixon and his loved ones have suffered enough."

The former President responded from his home in San Clemente, Calif., with a statement in which he admitted no criminal wrongdoing but said that "one thing I can see clearly now is that I was wrong in not acting more decisively and more forthrightly in dealing with Watergate."

Philip Buchen, White House counsel, told reporters that Ford granted Nixon a sweeping pardon without any strings attached.

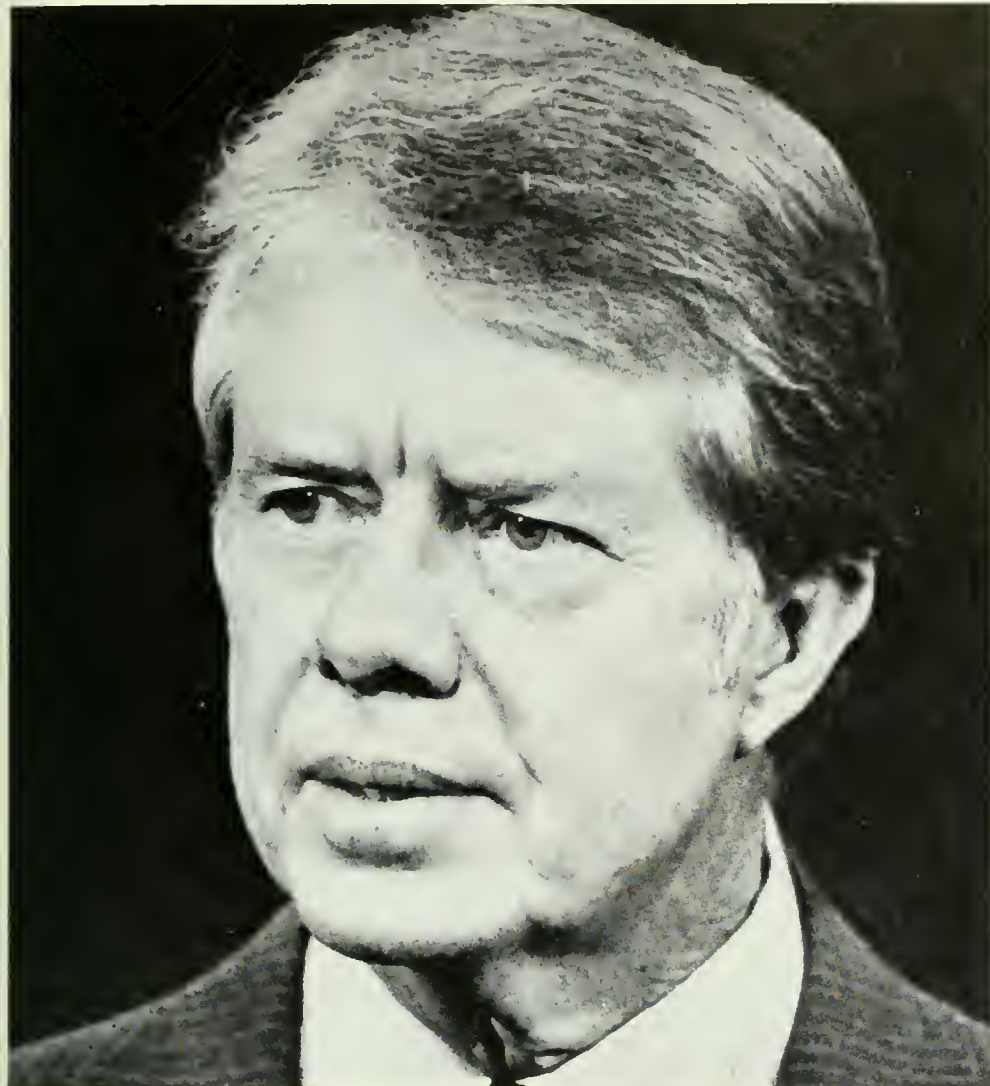

In announcing the pardon, Ford said any move to try the former President might have taken months or years during which "ugly passions would again be aroused, our people would again be polarized in their opinions, and the credibility of our free institutions of government would again be challenged at home and abroad."

THE CARTER ERA

JIMMY CARTER FIRST SOUTHERN PRESIDENT IN 128 YEARS

January 29, 1977 (AP)—Jimmy Carter, who walked alone when he started his quest, crowned it with his inauguration Thursday as the nation's 39th President, then walked with thousands from the Capitol to the White House as they paraded in honor of his triumph.

"Let us create together a new national spirit of unity and trust," he urged Americans. "Let us learn together and laugh together and pray together, confident that in the end we will triumph together in the right."

"Two centuries ago, our nation's birth was a milestone in the long quest for freedom, but the bold and brilliant dream which excited the founders of our nation still awaits consummation," Carter went on. "I have no new dream to set forth today, but rather urge a fresh faith in the old spirit."

And then with a prayer, it was over. But now Carter, First Lady Rosalynn and three Carter sons set out on foot for the 40 Minute walk remaining. He was joined by thousands.

SHAH LEAVES U.S.

December, 1979 (AP)—The exiled Shah of Iran left the United States Saturday, secretly flying from Texas to Panama City where a U.S. Air Force helicopter brought him to this lush tropical island in the Panama Gulf of the Pacific Ocean.

His arrival in the United States from exile in Mexico in October led to the November 4 occupation of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Iranian militants who are still holding 50 American hostages in the embassy.

A statement released by the shah's chief advisor, Robert Armao, who accompanied him here, said the shah's "departure from the United States no longer provides Mr. Khomeini with an excuse to continue to hold American hostages. The shah called on the people of Iran to release the hostages immediately." Khomeini is Iran's revolutionary Moslem leader who is backing the embassy invaders' stand that the hostages will not be freed until the shah is returned to Iran to stand trial.

A Panamanian government spokesman in Panama City, Pedro Ureta Jr., said Royo told a group of businessmen in Chiriqui Province near the Costa Rican border that "Panama gave the shah political asylum because it wants to contribute to solve a world crisis."

Powell said the Iranian government was advised of the departure just before the shah left Texas.

CARTER WARNS IRAN

Washington, November, 1979 (AP)—The Carter administration hinted for the first time Tuesday at the possibility of U.S. military action against Iran if American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran are not freed.

The veiled threat came from White House spokesman Jody Powell after President Carter returned to Washington from this Camp David retreat to confer with top advisers, including military leaders.

"The United States is seeking a peaceful solution to his problem through the United Nations and every available channel," Powell said. "This is far preferable to the other remedies available to the United States."

"Such remedies are explicitly recognized in the charter of the United Nations. The government of Iran must recognize the gravity of the situation it has created."

Under the U.N. Charter, an aggrieved nation is entitled to take defensive military action and seek Security Council sanctions, including interruption of economic ties or air, sea, or land communications.

Shortly after the White House statement was issued, Pentagon officials said the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk and an escort of five warships were ordered to sail from the Philippines to the Indian Ocean. The carrier Midway and five other ships are operating in the Arabian Sea about 600 miles from the mouth of the Persian Gulf.

Pentagon sources stressed there had been no orders from the White House for military action.

JOHN WAYNE, THE DUKE, DIES

Vol. 1 No. 1

June, 1979 (AP)—John Wayne, a Hollywood hero for nearly 50 years, and 200 movies, built his image as a fearless, determined fighter. That was the way "The Duke" died—in a courageous fight with cancer.

As the disease began its final assault and the pain became more and more severe, Wayne sometimes refused the drugs that could have eased the way. He wanted, a hospital official told the press, "to be with his children, his grandchildren . . . He would tolerate discomfort just to be near his family."

"He was—and is—an American institution," said actor Charlton Heston. "It's not surprising that, to the end, Duke gave an example of courage that made him more than an actor and friend."

As a measure of Wayne's immense popularity and almost legendary stature, Congress last month voted to have a gold medal struck in his honor. Among the other 83 recipients of the congressional medal have been George Washington and Andrew Jackson.

Wayne had faced cancer before. The disease claimed part of a lung 15 years ago—but the Duke won. "I licked the BIG C," he had boasted after that 1964 operation. Then he went to Mexico and began filming "The Sons of Katie Elder," another in the long string of the biggest box office draws in Hollywood history.

After a series of bit parts and odd jobs around the movie sets, Wayne got his first big role in 1930. He became a star nine years later for his portrayal of the good-guy gunman in "Stagecoach." He was nominated for an Oscar in 1949 for "The Sands of Iowa Gima." He won the award in 1970 for his role as Rooster Cogburn in "True Grit."

THE KING IS DEAD

August 16, 1977 (AP)—Fans of yesterday and today, old and young, teenyboppers and their middle-aged mothers, gathered today on Elvis Presley's doorstep, not to scream and cheer but to mourn. Their king is dead.

Elvis Aron Presley, the sexy Mississippi truck driver who launched his own record career and became America's greatest king of rock 'n' roll, died Tuesday afternoon of a heart ailment. He was 42.

The switchboard received calls from all 50 states and from as far away as Guam and Johannesburg, South Africa. "Everyone wanted to know where to send flowers."

Presley, whose recording of "Heartbreak Hotel" helped put him on top of the entertainment world 21 years ago, was discovered unconscious at Graceland in suburban Memphis on Tuesday afternoon. Presley was found dressed in pajamas and lying face-up in the red-carpeted bathroom next to his second-floor bedroom.

Dr. George Nichopoulos, long-time physician for Elvis, was convicted of over-prescribing drugs to Elvis.

RESCUE ATTEMPT FAILS

April 25, 1980 (AP)—A dramatic effort to free the U.S. hostages in Tehran failed Thursday and the bodies of eight American servicemen were left behind in blazing aircraft wreckage on an Iranian salt desert. The mission was doomed by the malfunction of three helicopters in a fleet of eight.

Iranian revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the militants holding the 50 American captives reacted with a chilling threat to kill the Americans if President Carter tries another "silly maneuver."

Defense Secretary Harold Brown said 90 military men from four services plus air crew were involved in the operation that brought aircraft from the carrier Nimitz to Posht Badam, a refueling site in the Iranian desert late Thursday, Iran time. Two of the helicopters had trouble en-route, Brown said. One landed in the desert, its crew then boarded another chopper. Then a second helicopter malfunctioned and returned to the Nimitz.

At Posht Badam, 200 miles from Tehran, a third RH-53 chopper was put out of commission by hydraulic problems. That, Brown said, caused the mission to be cancelled. It had been decided a minimum of six helicopters needed to be operational for the mission to continue from the fueling point. By then the rescuers had only five.

As the task force prepared to head back, lifting off in the blackness of the desert night, a helicopter and one of six C-130 transports collided and burst into flames.

"Eight of our men were killed and four others suffered burns," Brown said. "To ensure the safe evacuation of the rest of the party, the commander on the scene directed his men to leave helicopters and depart on the remaining C-130's."

(AP)—Secretary of State, Cyrus Vance, quietly submitted his resignation to Carter before the rescue attempt failed in an Iranian desert because of equipment failures and other mishaps.

Sources said Vance was so upset by the decision that he would have left even had it succeeded.

(AP)—Tommy Caldwell, bass player with the Marshall Tucker Band, died Monday, April 28, of injuries received in a Spartanburg, S.C. traffic accident.

FREIGHTER CAUSES DISASTER

May 10, 1980 (AP)—A freighter tore out a 1,300 foot section of the Sunshine Skyway Bridge during a blinding thunderstorm Friday, sending a Greyhound bus, a pick-up truck and three cars hurtling 140 feet into Tampa Bay. At least 32 people were killed, authorities said.

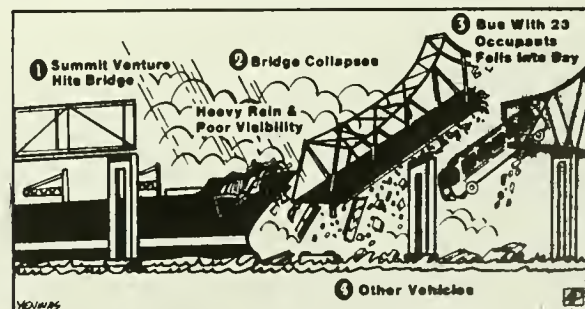

Eighteen bodies, including that of a baby, were recovered before divers called off their search until the next morning because of foul weather.

All 23 people aboard the Miami-bound bus were killed when it sank in 20 feet of water and tangled in the twisted steel from the mangled bridge, said Coast Guard Capt. Marshall Gilbert.

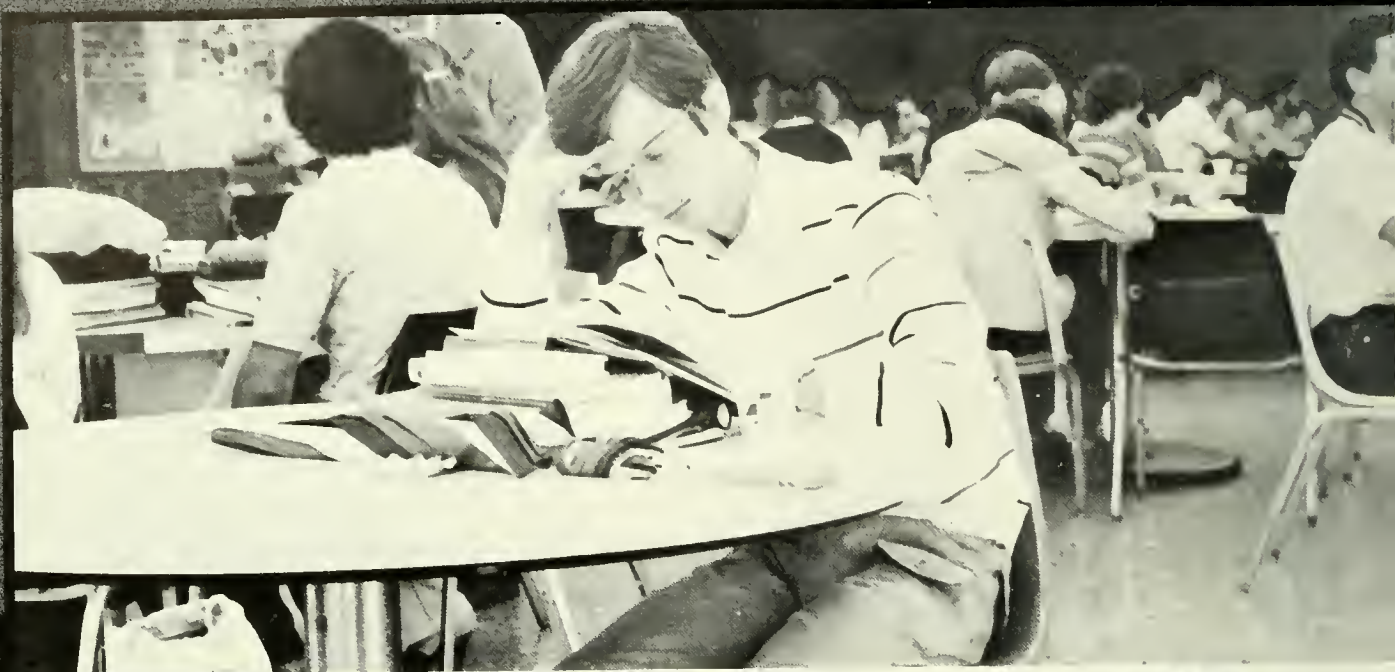

"The toll could go higher, much higher," said Gilbert.

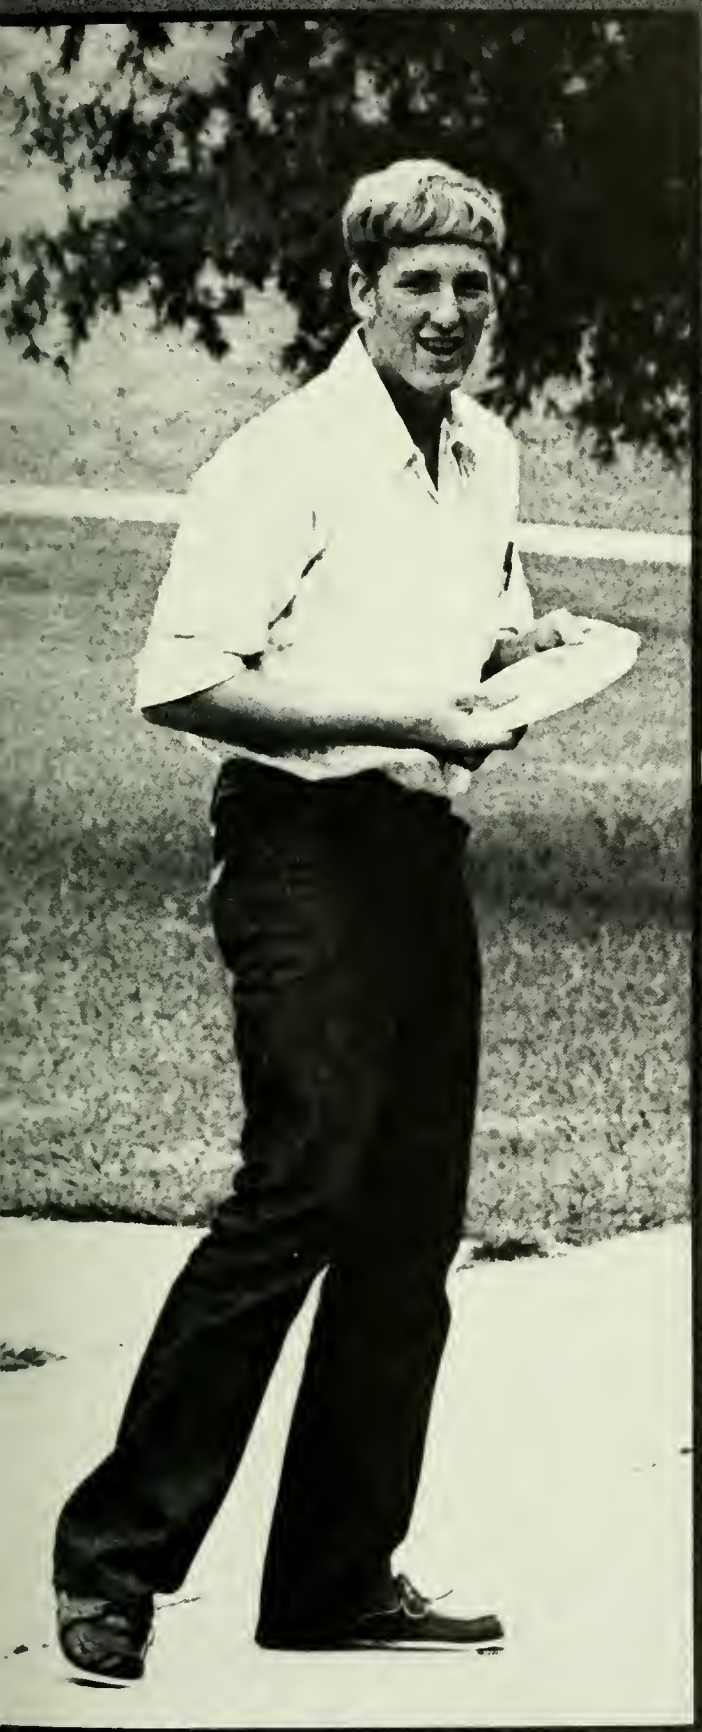

"There are a number of vehicles underwater and entangled in the bridge," Gilbert said. "There are bodies in at least two of (the vehicles) and we think there are additional vehicles."

No injuries were reported aboard the ship, although chunks of the bridge wreckage landed on its bow.

(AP)—Alfred Hitchcock, world reknown master of suspense movies, died in Los Angeles at the age of 80.

STUDENT LIFE

Student Life comprises an important part of any college; and for many students this will be the most memorable part of the time we spent at USCS.

The POETS Days, dances, parties, and the occasional taking time out to study, the crowning of a new Miss USCS and Homecoming Queen, the best basketball season the Rifles ever had and just being together, these are some of the things we will carry with us.

Though we must grow and pass through this stage in our lives, the friends we have made and the memories we cherish from here at USCS will stay with us throughout our lives.

We hope this section portrays where we are and where we have been; but the question still remains the same . . .

Previous generations occupying the halls of USCS may not have enjoyed the variety of courses offered today but their classes and activities were just as important in each student's life as they are to today's students.

Though learning is, of course, the main purpose for attending college, the people, the experiences, and the activities that surround this learning are the aspects which put living into every student's life.

This section is devoted to these aspects: the activities which brightened an afternoon, promote an involvement, initiate a friendship, and in so doing, add excitement and variety to student life at USCS.

ENTERTAINMENT

USCS PRESENTS

The Student Government Association was proud to present Grammy Award winner Chuck Mangione at the Spartanburg Memorial Auditorium. This was the first such venture by SGA at presenting a major entertainer in the Spartanburg area.

Papa Mangione, his son's most devoted fan, helps to sell records, buttons and tee shirts. After an encore performance, Chuck took time to have his picture made with Cecelia Hood and other students.

MISS USCS

On Friday, December 7, 1979, the Miss USCS Pageant was held in conjunction with the Christmas Dance. The party and festivities took place at the National Guard Armory. Miss USCS is chosen on the basis of school spirit and participation, personality, and beauty. The contestants for the title are interviewed by a panel of faculty and staff members who make the final decision.

1980 Miss USCS, Cecelia Hood, expresses joy after being crowned.

TOGA PARTY

On the evening of November 16, students at USCS appeared at the Hodge Center donned in unusual attire. It was the first annual Toga Party. The SGA went all out to bring the spirit of the ancient Greek festival to USCS with Roman decorations and refreshments. The idea for the festivities was taken from the smash hit movie Animal House starring John Belushi.

DINNER DANCE

HOMECOMING '80

The 1980 Homecoming festivities were held on the night of February 24 in the Hodge Center. The Near Misses performed a new dance routine to the Homecoming theme, "And All That Jazz." During half time of the basketball game all the contestants and their escorts were introduced and Susan Bowman was crowned 1980 Homecoming Queen with Allison Cantrell named Maid of Honor. The Rifles beat Francis Marion. The SGA sponsored a dance held at the National Guard Armory after the game.

INSPECTIONS

EMISSION CONTROL

One Fall day cars began lining up in front of the Hodge Center for the free Emission Inspection Demonstration. A rod was put into a car's tail pipe while its engine ran. The purpose of this demonstration was to show how much pollution and gaseous waste one's car produced.

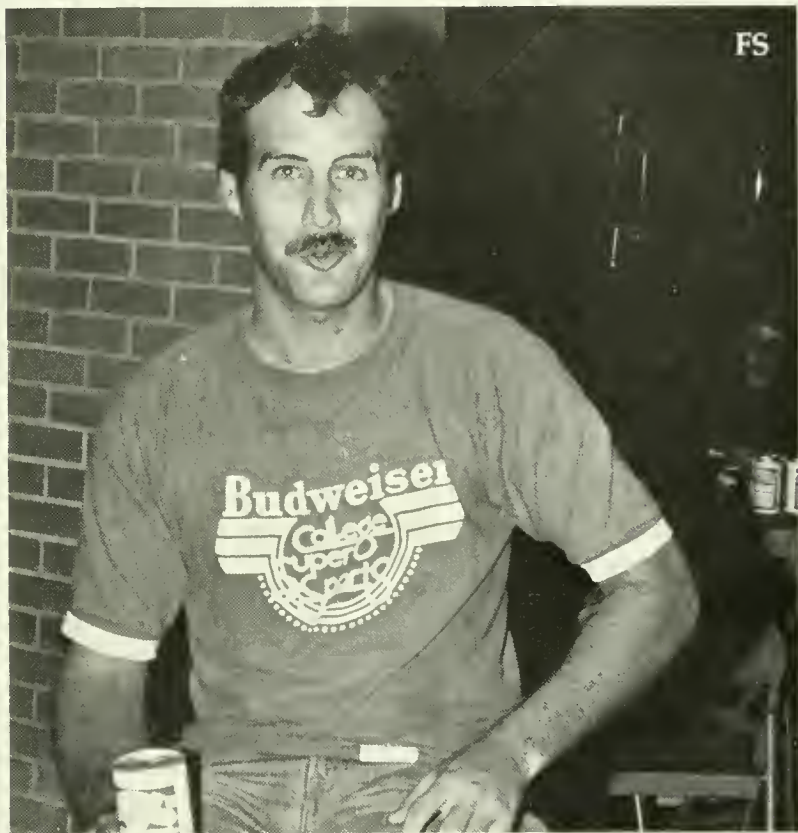

BACK-TO-SCHOOL DANCE

Exactly one week after the start of fall classes, students were ready for a party. SGA obliged with "The Back-to-School Dance." Free beer, free soft drinks, free munchies, and a free band—Omni, provided the correct ingredients for an "all-out" swinging party

CIRCLE K ROUND-UP

The round-up was planned to promote Circle K membership for the upcoming year. Admittance to the party was open to any student at USCS.

Several members of the basketball team attended and added a new dimension of enjoyment to the party, as did the cheerleaders and members of the Carolana staff. The Western theme used for the party provided country music and a few beers to ease the pain of the honkey-tonk sounds coming from the stereo.

A good time was to be found for all who attended and also a happy ending—no one was shot down in a gun fight.

Bill Massey lays back to take a breath before diving in again.

FOUNDER'S DAY

In February, 1967, a commission was created with Dr. G. B. Hodge as chairman, to bring a University of South Carolina regional campus to Spartanburg. Thanks to the strenuous efforts of many people, the campus was able to enroll its first class of 177 students that fall.

Each year on the anniversary of the founding of the institution, USCS pauses to honor those whose help has meant so much to the campus and to rededicate itself to its mission of responding to the needs of our community.

Greenville County Sheriff Johnny Mack Brown was the recipient of the award from the USCS Alumni Association.

The students of USCS presented their award to Mr. Lachlan L. Hyatt, executive vice president of Butte Knit.

Recipient of the faculty award was Ernest Kluttz, President of the Spartanburg Bank & Trust Company.

Dr. J. G. McCracken, superintendent of school district seven, received the Spartanburg County Commission for Higher Education award.

Dr. Ernest Boyer was the guest speaker for the Founders' Day ceremonies held on Monday, February 18, 1980.

Dr. Boyer, who assumed his duties as President of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching this January, was recently listed by U.S. News and World Report as one of the outstanding educators in the nation for the past five years.

Mr. Lachlan L. Hyatt receives his award from SGA President Robert Brown.

Dr. Boyer speaks on the importance of education.

STEVE GIPSON

On February 22, Steve Gipson brought a combination of art and music to entertain those attending his performance. Both a comedian and cartoonist, Steve drew caricatures of famous profiles and told jokes to the rhythm of favorite songs.

Lindy Wayner helps Steve to evoke laughs from the audience.

JOHN BAYLEY

Another form of entertainment provided to help celebrate during the week of Homecoming was John Bayley. His solo instrumentation included both 12-and six-string guitars, mandolin, bazouki, all Latin and African percussion instruments, as well as his own footpowered rhythm section on the tamborines.

INCOME TAX SERVICES

Having been a successful program in the past, the free income tax service was again this year repeated. Traveling from church to church, the group set up shop on Saturdays from March 8 through April 5.

The program was designed not only to provide free assistance to people with incomes of $10,000 or less, but also gave students who studied income tax under Meyer Drucker to practice the skills they had learned.

Lynn Clemmons reminds one person that a return address is necessary to receive a refund.

Marsha Cudd, director and organizer of the program, instructs a student volunteer on itemized deductions.

Confusion sets in easily with all the forms required to complete a tax return.

COMEDY TONITE

CH

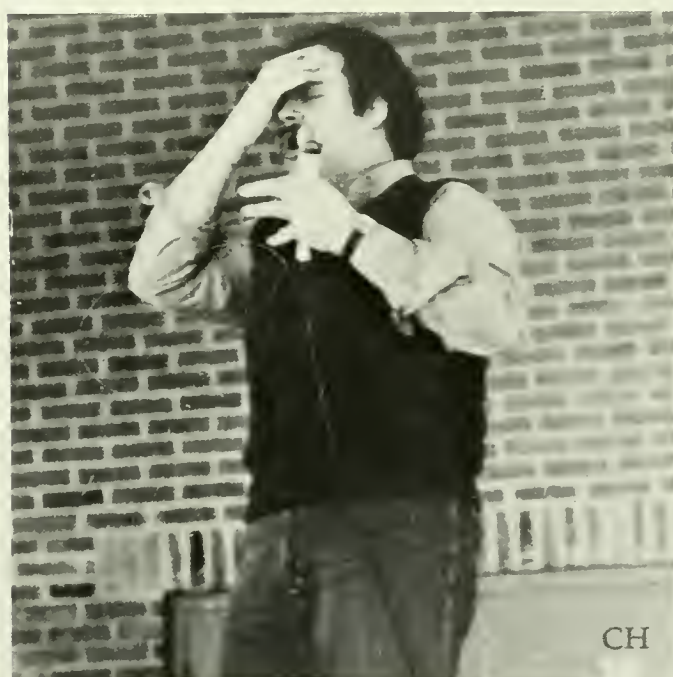

To help relieve the Monday blahs, on March 10, Comedy Tonite brought their special brand of humor to the campus of USCS.

Their presentation included satirical impersonations of several well-known personalities; and before the show was through the three comedians were making fun of, and mimicking a few of the students.

Comedy Tonite is an act sent out by the Comedy Store in Los Angeles. The Comedy Store serves as a springboard for many amateur comedians

USCS PRESENTS GODSPELL

John Tabelak first got the idea for Godspell after attending an Easter service. Before the service began it started to snow outside. As Tabelak listened, people complained bitterly about the snow, their lack of coats, and the new clothes that would be ruined in the snow. To Tabelak's dismay, the priest also delivered a dull, boring message that did little to celebrate Jesus' resurrection. The energetic Godspell was written as the result of this church service.

GEORGE WALLACE VISITS CAMPUS

This year the Southern Politics classes had a change from the standard classroom lectures. Dr. Ron Romine and visiting professor Bryan Dorn made most of the arrangements to have major political figures come to Tukey Theatre to speak. The most well known of the speakers was George Wallace.

NEW CLASS FORMAT IN SOUTHERN POLITICS

A new format for Southern Politics was employed this past fall. At the request of former Congressman Bryan Dorn, many distinguished speakers visited the USCS campus. Most came without pay; however, travel and lodging expenses were paid for, along with a token honorarium of $100. Such distinguished persons as former House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills, presidential candidate George Bush, former Alabama Governor George Wallace, first woman president of New York's Wells College "Sissy" Farenthold, past S.C. governor Robert McNair, and Duke University President Terry Sanford all added a prestigious integrity to the USCS campus.

Top: Dr. Sansbury, along with several other faculty members, came to participate in the lectures.

Right: Dr. Terry Sanford, President of Duke University, was among the list of personalities brought to USCS.

VISITING DIGNITARIES ADD TO CAMPUS LIFE

George Bush: "We can solve any problem we want."
Frances Farenthold: "I'm glad to have the experience of being part of those who are discriminated against."
Terry Sanford: "People want magic. They want a sense of leadership."
Robert McNair: "We've still got a long way to go."

SPRING FEVER HITS USCS

As spring comes to USCS, classes, term papers, and jobs are all forgotten for the "great outdoors." Playing tennis, "catching a few rays," throwing a softball, flipping a frisbee, and flying a kite become the main focus in most of the students' lives.

This disease, Spring Fever, causes people to do strange things. A simple task such as having one's picture made is no longer simple. At the risk of getting attacked by a swan, Mark Hinson must crawl into Milliken Lake before he can continue posing for his Senior Hall of Fame picture. For the sake of art, Doc Lindsay's Art Appreciation class simply must flood the campus with strange apparitions covered with long tails and glitter.

The strangest behavior of all however comes from the Book Store. For only one time a year, students are actually offered discounts. Shirts, shorts, necklaces, and books cover the sidewalk, tempting students to spend the money they had originally intended to use at the beach.

FACULTY CLOSE-UP:

Charles Stavely

It is not uncommon to receive comments on my evaluation sheets that the professor should not try to be a comedian or he should get some new jokes. Consequently, each semester I vow to kick the pun habit, however, try as I may, the "punishment" continues. I thought the disease was incurable but then one day last summer, immediately following an attack, there came a resounding noise. I almost swallowed my chalk. I was stunned, not knowing what had happened. Moments later as I began to regain my composure I could hazelly see a dazzling bright yellow object. Slowly my eyes focused—I had been gonged—I could not believe it. My students whom I so dearly loved, had gonged me.

The first class I taught at USCS had ten students and was late in the afternoon. Evidently I strongly emphasized the importance of attending all classes. After school had been in session for one month, I entered class and saw nine of the regular students and one stranger. I asked the newcomer his name, and he replied, "I'm Joe and Pete asked me to come in his place so your feelings wouldn't be hurt."

The second semester I was here, a policeman took my course. He was sick and missed the mid-term. When he came to take the make-up, he took off his coat, pulled out a BIG gun laid it on my desk, and said, "I'm ready to take the test now!"

The School of Education is a professional school whose chief responsibility is the preparation of teachers for pre-school, elementary, middle, and secondary level school. The school sponsors various conferences planned specifically for the staffs of elementary, middle, and secondary schools with other agencies. The school also cooperates with a number of bureaus and clinics developed to augment its academic programs and to provide specialized services to the educational community.

One of the most noteworthy events of this year has to be George Wallace's statement from the stage in Tukey Auditorium, November 6, that "segregation was wrong. Pick up the energy, think the thought at the moment of utterance, you need more variety in the development of your supporting materials, there's a division meeting when? Hello, Student Affairs, is this Susan? I've been told the Ayatollah has a meeting scheduled in Tukey Wednesday night and I've got to get him out, I've got members coming for a rehearsal. Rehearsal from 2:00-6:00 am, why not? Cox!! Yes, Dr. Edmonds, whatever it is I'm sure I must have done it. It's 4:00 am, is rehearsal over yet?

8:00 classes are not everyone's cup of tea—especially, it seems, upper classmen's. In one such class I had a loquacious student who, though he claimed to enjoy my lectures, persisted in wondering out loud why we did not have films in the course. Finally I was able to announce, with much fanfare, that the following class period we would have a film. The immediate response was "What are we having for refreshments?" I retorted that since I was providing the film I thought the students should provide their own refreshments. That, I thought, closed the matter, but, to my surprise, the day of the film the enterprising filmlover provided coke and popcorn for everyone in the class.

The program leading to an Associate of Science in Technical Nursing degree is two years in length and includes liberal arts and science courses as well as nursing preparation. This program is currently open only to registered nurses and offers junior and senior level courses in nursing, liberal arts and sciences.

I needed to be in New York on one of my scheduled class days so I decided to videotape the class presentation. I prepared background music, dozens of overhead transparencies, and cue cards for the taping. With tremendous assistance from the Learning Resources Center staff and student assistants, I proceeded to deliver my lecture on Middlescence. About mid-way through the production I began to talk about the stage of "restabilization." Only thing is, I said, "Re-estabilization," and proceeded to mispronounce that word four additional times. It wasn't until the summation that I got it right. Sure enough. The laugh was on me that class day. And I wasn't even there to enjoy it!

Designed to provide a technically-oriented education with emphasis on mathematics skills and computer technology, the applied mathematics concentration is similar to traditional mathematics and computer science majors. With the addition of courses in business administration, however, it should provide graduates who will be attractive to business and industrial firms seeking employees who have scientific problem-solving ability and computer training. This degree program will offer comparatively limited but well-defined and expanding career opportunities for the mathematically competent student with a scientific orientation.

Teaching an 8:00 class usually means many student absences. When at midday I see students who have missed class, I generally greet them. These embarrassed, guilty, but undiplomatic students often ask, "Did I miss anything this morning?" How do you suggest I answer?

Once at the beginning of a semester, I got my schedule so mixed up that I lectured for an hour on Shakespeare to an American literature class. The students through either diplomacy, complacency, ignorance, never questioned me.

Tom took the gift to Dr. Stirzaker's secretary and told her to give the gift to Dr. Stirzaker. Unfortunately for Tom, the secretary interrupted an important meeting to give Dr. Stirzaker his "gift." Bruce recalls one such incident: "Behind my house, there was a large ditch. One day we were playing around the ditch. One of the boys was caught in the ditch needing someone to stand on in order to get out. My brother lowered me in. The boy stood on my back and they pulled him out. Everyone was happy—except me—I got left behind in the ditch."

SHOESTRING PLAYERS

USCS THEATER GROUP

The Shadow Box is a play about three people facing death. Since death to most people is such a sad and morbid event, Michael Cristofer could have produced a "down beat" play that depressed theater goers. Instead he produced a touching work with a happy medium between tears and laughter. The characters in the play were played by William Starnes, Sue Manning, Dean Thompson, Paul Martin, Christopher Cline, Susan Jacobs, Peggy Beasley, and Rosalind Huffman.

"There are five different stages that a person will go through when he faces the fact of his own death; denial, anger, bargaining, depression, and acceptance. These stages will last for different periods of time, they will replace each other, or exist at times side by side . . . but the one thing that usually persists through all stages is hope."

This year the 1980 Senior class officers initiated a new program for recognition—the Senior Hall of Fame. These officers discovered that for many years organizations on campus have recognized those students who made excellent grades. However a certain problem existed. Many students on campus were very active leaders in extracurricular activities; however, because of the excessive amount of time devoted to these extracurricular activities, these students were not able to meet the high academic standards of these honor societies. The Senior Hall of Fame was proposed as a solution.

INTERMURAL SOFTBALL

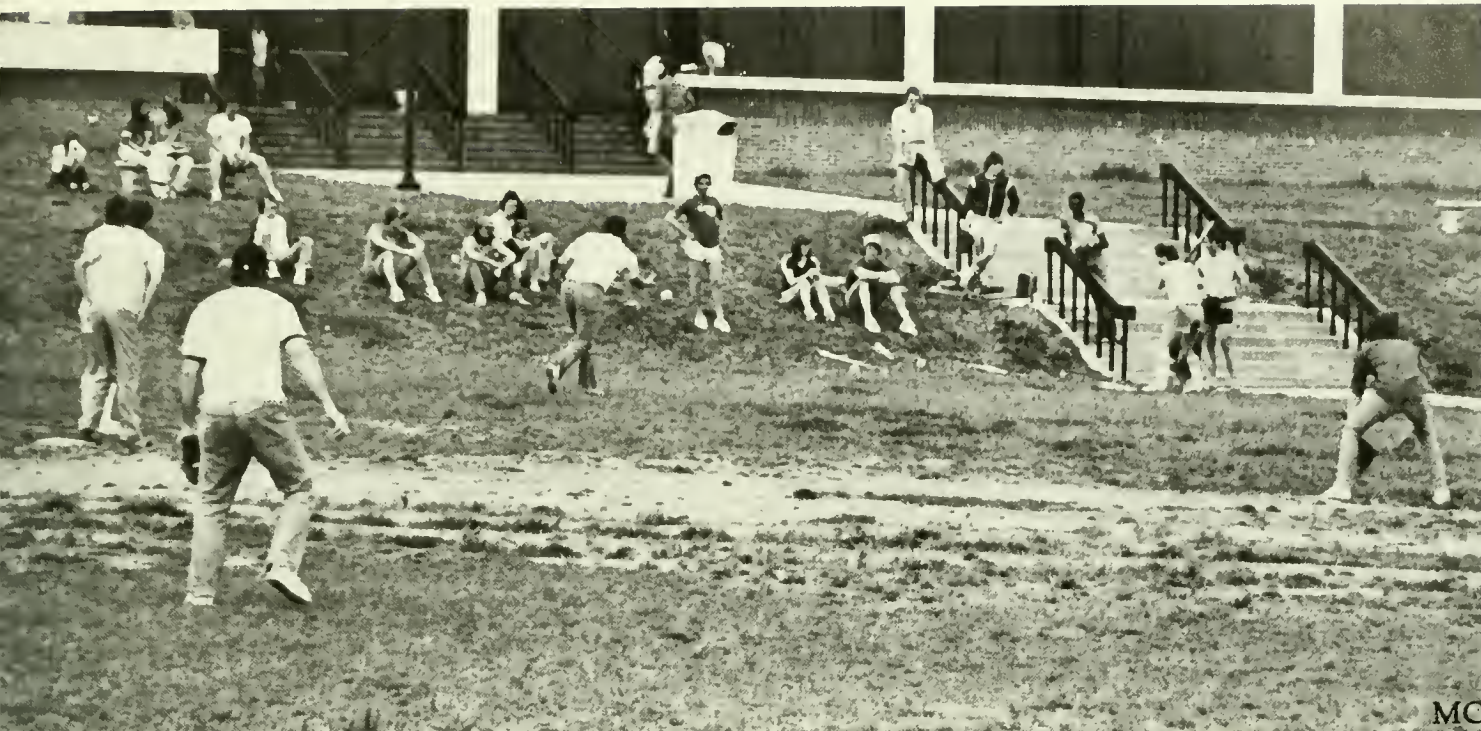

A CURE FOR SPRING FEVER

The arrival of Spring and nice weather creates an uncontrollable disease called Spring Fever. This disease is curable by outdoor activities and the ending of exams. This year's intermural softball program attracted many students who sought to relieve themselves of this dreaded disease. Teams that participated were the Chess Club, Afro-American Association, The Spartan Club, Les Maurve, and the Reefers. This year's softball program was among the most successful intermural programs sponsored by USCS.

Jeff Stamps can't call this one; it is destined to be a homerun.

EXTRAMURAL FLAG FOOTBALL

FIRST YEAR SUCCESS

The 1979-80 intermural/extramural flag football program was a first year success winning 3 out of 4 games played. USCS lost only to Spartanburg Methodist College, while taking victories over Wofford's ROTC team and a strong Limestone team.

The Rifles were led by Bill Rietmier and his explosive offense.

The fearless defense was led by Jack "Too Tall" Wilson and crack-back defenders.

USCS is looking forward to another year of playing its neighboring institutions in a clean and wholesome interaction of sport and socializing fun.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

The intermural basketball program saw much team participation this year. The championship was won by the Indies who were led by Mark McDown and Dick Cox. This year's basketball program was bigger than those of past years. The Golf team, the Afro-American Association, the Tutoring Lab, and the Indies all fielded teams.

Referee Scott McCloud starts the game off with a jump ball.

CROSS COUNTRY

The 1979-80 season for the USCS Cross Country team was not as good as expected; however, the outlook for next year is promising. With all of the Rifles returning, the Rifles will be looking forward to a good record next year. SOCCER

Coached by Frank Kohlenstein, the Soccer Club had a good first season. Much improvement was shown with the Rifles improving their skills and increasing their experience. The 1980 season should be promising for the Rifles with the addition of soccer as a varsity sport.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

The Lady Rifles finished their season 25-16, finishing fifth in the state tournament. All players, except two, will be returning next year. According to Coach Joe Bowman, the outlook for next year's volleyball team is good and the recruiting is going well. WOMEN'S SOFTBALL

For the first time ever, USCS has fielded a women's fast pitch softball team. Cheryl Fowler and Michele Murphy, with their fast and accurate pitching, are noted for coming from behind and pulling out a win. The Lady Rifles are coached by Jerry Baker, Frank Kohlenstein and student assistant Mike Massey.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

For the first time ever, USCS put a women's tennis team on the court. The lack of experience in competition play, however, severely harmed the Lady Rifles and left them with a disappointing season. Team Members were Elise Kimling, Jeanie McClure, Kelly Thompson, Christy Lindsay, Tracy Lindsay, Barbara Marlow, and Wendy Hughes.

MEN'S TENNIS

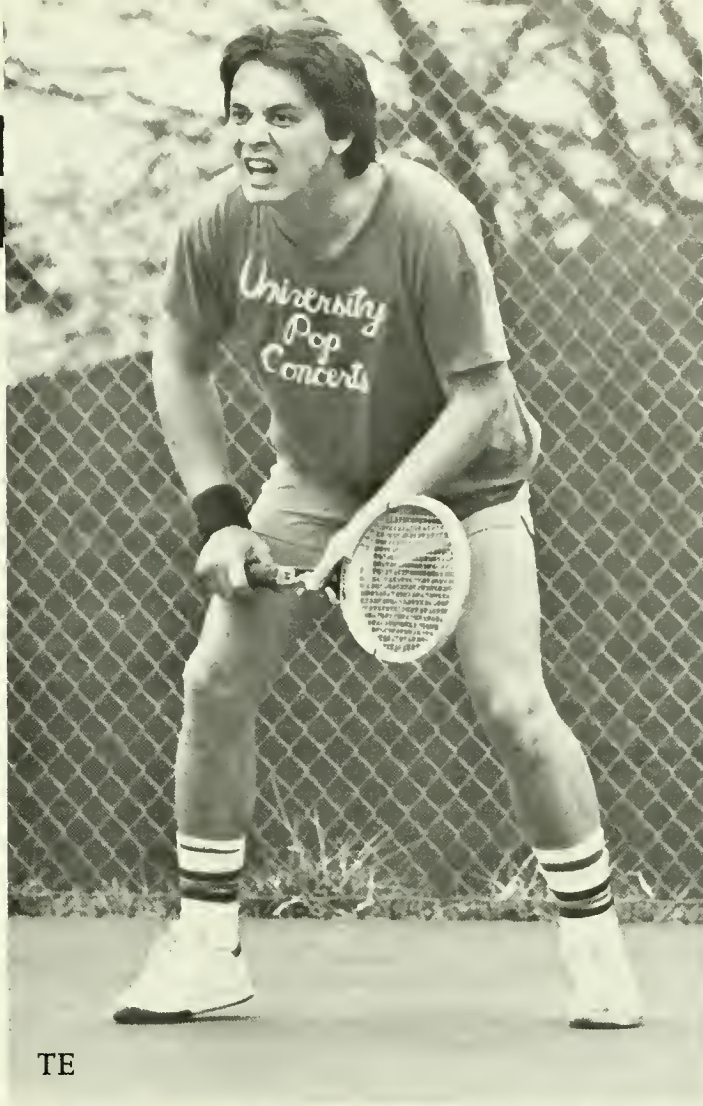

The Spring 1980 Men's Tennis Team suffered many disappointments and much heartbreak due to inexperience in collegiate competition. Guy Jacobsohn, coach of the Judo team, had only two lettermen returning from last year's team. Five of his team members had no judo experience until two weeks before their first tournament began.

In spite of these handicaps, the judo team once again made a fine showing at the Eden N.C. YMCA Tournament. Six of the team's eight members brought trophies home.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Under the direction of Coach Emily Myers, the Lady Rifles had a disappointing 13-16 record. They were plagued throughout the season with the loss of players due to injuries and misunderstandings. Sharon Rice, the 6'1" center from Woodruff, was lost at the beginning of the season with a knee injury. Cheryl Fowler, a two-year starter from Cowpens High School, quit in mid-season due to personal conflicts.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

This year's young Rifle Team, under the guiding hand of Coach Bill Hinson and his staff, posted the most impressive season record in the program's history as a four year institution. Although plagued with injuries and without seniors on the team, the Rifles still managed an 18-12 record, the third best among the 18 teams in District Six.

The Rifles season typified that of many prosperous teams. The early season was very successful for the Rifles as they jumped off to a quick 8-1 record and the number one ranking in the District. A twenty-three day lay-off during fall exams and Christmas Break, compounded by mid-season injuries, and the ineligibility of Rifle star, Oscar Mooney, took its toll as the Rifles suffered a mid-season slump. A tremendous team effort, however, helped the Rifles regroup and generate new life for the second half of the season. This new generated life lifted the Rifles to a 7th place ranking in the District and a spot in the District playoffs; where they lost by one point to the team that eventually won the District.

JAMES T. ALLEN, Ph.D.

Born in 1948 earned me the less than particular distinction of riding the wave of demographic bulge called "the post-war baby boom." Little did I know, but even then my generation caused changes that would affect us all.

All around us was growth. Suburbs spread like kudzu. Jobs were plentiful. Conveniences and comforts became mandatory. For my parents, credit became a way of life and my birthright. Words such as 'natural resource' and 'energy' meant very little to people paying twenty-five cents a gallon for gasoline. 'Growth' and 'progress' became synonyms and a fact of life. Today, of course, the fact has turned to fancy.

In the Fifties, my generation discovered music.

In the Sixties, we discovered meaning and relevance which—like music—for some untold reason, had been mislaid by previous generations. But with a persistent innocence thought that change was a matter of will.

The Seventies produced an end to my collegial understudy. In addition, came the four horsemen: Marriage, Mortgage, Bills and Responsibility. There were other changes, too. A career was realized. But, the rules were not the same.

With the Eighties—who knows? But, if any of this is a lesson, then the only constant is there is none.

MICHAEL DRESSMAN, Ph.D.

I considered various careers before I settled on college teaching: I studied four years to be a Catholic priest; I wrote for a Detroit newspaper for six months; I was in VISTA in Nevada; I taught high school for a year. One of the important decisions of my life was made the day I turned down acceptance into a Ford Motor Company management training program and chose instead to teach summer school at the University of Detroit.

I'm interested in both language and literature. If I can help a person become more aware as a user of language or as a reader of literature, then I believe I've done my job.

Different teachers are successful using different techniques. My approach tends to treat the material as the goal while I act as the students' guide. I'm not the source of wisdom; it's my duty to make the knowledge available so that students can begin to form the critical tastes and judgements that are the beginnings of wisdom.

ROGER LUTTRELL, M.B.A.

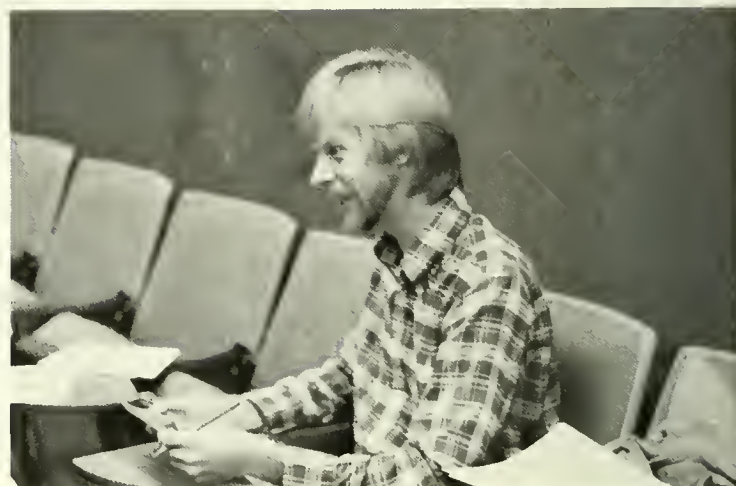

Upon graduation from Baldwin-Wallace in 1969 I accepted first teaching position at Crestwood High School in Mautua, Ohio. While teaching at Crestwood I began taking accounting courses in the evening at the University of Akron and after 50 or so hours of course work accepted a position with Price-Waterhouse & Co., one of the nation's largest CPA firms. I went with Price-Waterhouse & Co. because in my opinion it is necessary to have actually done what you are attempting to teach and not just studied about it.

After becoming a CPA I returned to the classroom at Muskegan Community College and began pursuing an MBA. Upon completing the MBA and teaching another two years at Hope College I came to USCS.

In the classroom I try to balance both textbook theory and the practical aspects of accounting found in the "real world."

GORDON E. MAPLEY, Ph.D.

I find it difficult to respond to the Carolana's request to cite the "major accomplishments" of my life. While I believe that I've been relatively successful in my chosen career, I would not list my successes as major accomplishments in my life. This terminology indicates a goal orientation which is not part of my life style. While I set goals and enjoy success, I prefer to see my life more as a continual process of being, rather than as a progression through a series of accomplishments.

Rather than list major accomplishments, I prefer to list those events which have had the greatest influence on my life—the choice of my wife, the birth of my sons, obtaining a Ph.D. in Psychology, coming to USCS, and being born into a middle-class Christian home.

My conception of the ideal professor consists of three tasks: (1) to impart a body of knowledge; (2) to facilitate scholarship (e.g. the desire to seek knowledge, the ability to critically evaluate information, the desire to overcome ignorance); and (3) to serve as a model of "the enlightened person" (i.e. one who lives a logical, ethical, sociocentric life).

JOHN MC ALHANY, Ph.D.

To attempt to put on paper what one considers his major accomplishments during a lifetime is at best an impossible undertaking in light of the different goals to which different jobs in one's life are directed.

Without question the major accomplishment to date would have to be my happiness with my marriage and the three children I have fathered. Of course this is a personal accomplishment, but without it my academic career would have been unrewarding.

In the academic arena where I have been employed all my life, my major goal has always been to be the best professor that I could possibly be. Students often do not realize the work and dedication that must be present if one is to be an effective teacher. The completion of the doctorate was an accomplishment of which I am very proud, but it only marked the beginning of my teaching career. Teaching is a demanding profession which involves much work and preparation if it is to be done right. This is especially true in my area of economics, a most fascinating and changing field.

In my mind, I am satisfied that I have at least partially accomplished my goal of becoming an effective teacher, not only at USCS but at the other colleges and universities where I have had the pleasure to teach.

My philosophy of teaching is quite simple. I must help to train our students to be capable of thinking and functioning in the non-academic world. Not only must I participate in the students professional development, but I must aid in their intellectual growth and maturity so that they can become effective citizens upon graduation.

MARY S. TAYLOR, M.S.N.

The greatest accomplishment of my life has been the rearing of four children to become good citizens. I also completed a baccalaureate degree in nursing while doing this. My involvement in the Student Nurse's Association, both local and state, has also given me a feeling of great satisfaction and accomplishment.

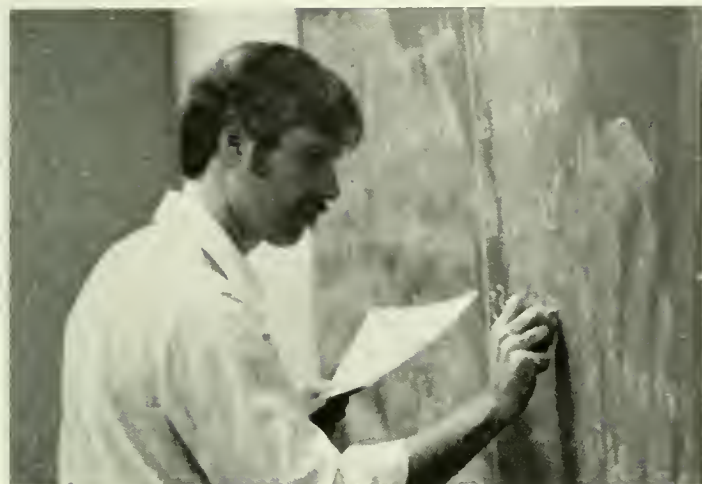

I feel that my philosophy of teaching evolved from my philosophy as a parent. The teacher is a resource person and facilitator of learning rather than a walking encyclopedia.

JUANITA PATRICK, B.S.N.

Martin Buber said, "a good teacher must be a really existing man and must be really present to his pupils; he educates through contact." Teachers of nursing have a great deal of contact with their students since they teach them not only in the classroom, but also in the hospital setting. Through this contact and the many opportunities provided for Role Modeling, I believe the nursing teacher can contribute significantly to the education of students.

My philosophy of teaching also involves a concept of Carl Rogers which he calls "prizing the learner." I believe the student is the most essential component of the educational process. As such, the student should be treated fairly, courteously, and with respect for his individual needs and worth.

A major accomplishment in my life has been the attainment of career goals. After practicing nursing for an extended period of time in a variety of settings, I decided I could best contribute to my profession by teaching future practitioners. Being a member of the faculty of the School of Nursing enables me to influence the Knowledge base of student nurses, which will then be reflected in the quality of nursing care their clients receive.

M.B. ULMER, Ph.D.

I suppose in asking us to report our major accomplishments, you mean such things as follows:

- (1) Built a time dependent probabilistic model for a certain trivariate distribution of the m/m/1 queue.
- (2) Built a time dependent model for a certain queue with limited waiting room and discrimination.
- (3) Developed a procedure for teaching probability via a logic/set theory continuum.
- (4) Drew plans for a boat dock capable of accommodating extreme river stages (12 ft. to 72 ft.) found on the Timbigbee River.

Actually, the things of which I am proudest are:

- (1) Being a good father to my two girls.
- (2) Working and paying my way through high school and 3 college degrees and completing the Ph.D. at an early age. Much of the credit here actually goes to my wife who made life bearable during those difficult years.
- (3) The self respect generated by being able to say "I've done my best," even when I've failed.

Teaching/learning is a partnership between instructor and student in which each must take a great deal of responsibility. Within the learning process there are three levels—ignorance, confusion, and knowledge. A good instructor can pull a student up one level, and this he must prepare to do by knowing his subject, anticipating difficulties, and caring. The student must also prepare, for if he comes to class ignorant, he will leave confused, but if he comes to class confused, he will leave knowing.

EDWIN P. WHITE, Ph.D.

Survival seems to be my major accomplishment over the past 15 years. The American culture of the 1980's seems to be falling far short of the goals voiced in the early 70's of accepting diversity, cultural pluralism, activism, and strong support for individual rights and responsibilities.

Survival however, takes many forms other than from a political perspective. I've seen too many of my friends who have accepted positions that consumed all of their energies leaving no time for family, friends, personal development, or just enjoying the wind and the sun while off on a fire road in my jeep. Certainly I want my peers in education to respect the quantity and quality of my work, but at the same time I have insisted on providing adequate time for the other aspects of human interaction that have greatly contributed to the person I am now and the different person I will be in the future.

So, the ability to survive and a commitment to continued personal growth represent to me the goals I would identify as the most important accomplishments in my short existence.

Teaching has long been described as a combination of the sciences and arts with differing styles drawing upon each element in varying degrees of emphasis. My own education in the sciences has embedded in my actions an overwhelming commitment to the processes of science as a means to select goals and evaluate alternative strategies for attaining these ends. This same commitment to the methodology of science has led me to accept the premise that in preparing future teachers I cannot lecture to them about what are effective teaching strategies and expect any change in their behavior. There are countless examples in our society where dissemination of information continually fails to bring about any change in our behavior. This conclusion leads me to the position that "modeling" alternative teaching strategies is the most effective manner of teaching for me in light of the goals I have established.

The second major aspect of my philosophy relates to the quality of interactions between teachers and students. Effective teachers are generally those who are viewed by their students as "real people." Those who do not set themselves up as better than others (students) on the basis of some miniscule piece of paper declaring that they have been granted some pompous degree. Effective teachers are those who can engage students in stimulating an honest discussion of both academic and personal experience concerns. Being human remains the essential quality of any effective interactions between people, be they teacher and student or otherwise.

TEACHER-OF-THE-YEAR

BILL BRUCE

I see my major accomplishments in life as the following:

- (1) Growing with my wife for 18 years (she was 16 and I was 18 when we were married), and raising two caring children.
- (2) Performing for 3 years as the Chief Justice of the Student Government Association at Troy State University.
- (3) Seven successful years of teaching in Columbus, Georgia.
- (4) Completing my Ed.D. at Auburn University.
- (5) Building a nation wide reputation as a leader in Multicultural Education.
- (6) Touring the Soviet Union with Delta Kappa.
- (7) Being named Assistant Dean of The School of Education.
- (8) Selection as 1979-80 USCS Teacher of The Year.
- (9) Proposing and Directing the Columbus College/Harris County Teacher Corps Project (1975-77).
- (10) Maintaining a deep devotion to children and an empathy for students.

Having been raised in an elitist and racist society and attended schools where the rich and powerful were accorded more respect and opportunity, I have a deep commitment to providing educational equity for everyone—regardless of their individual characteristics. The foundation of my teaching is a respect for all individuals regardless of their differences.

I am also committed to developing self-sufficient human beings who do not have to rely on authorities for the answers to problems. I try to accomplish this by providing my students an opportunity to think and solve problems rather than just memorize vast amounts of information.

I believe in serving as a role model for the prospective teachers going through our programs and hope that I teach in the same manner that I expect our graduates to perform. I hope I can say "Do as I do and do as I say." My demonstration of various techniques and styles is, therefore, an important part of my classroom.

NURSING CAPPING AND PINNING CEREMONY

ALGERNON SIDNEY SULLIVAN AWARDS

The Algernon Sidney Sullivan Awards are presented each year by USCS to two students whose college careers have been characterized by a strong sense of community service and commitment to others. Chosen by a representative faculty-student committee, these individuals have demonstrated qualities of citizenship and community involvement that are bound to reflect credit on this institution in the future as they are identified as USCS graduates.

Developing an intercollegiate athletic program at a new institution is difficult. Steve Harvey might tell you that serving as a student sports information director is impossible. But Steve has worked successfully in that role during his entire career at USCS. His tireless efforts and determination have been reflected in the increased media exposure given to the USCS athletic program. Steve also took a leadership role in developing an athletic yearbook for USCS sports that has become a source of revenue as well as a professional information piece. In addition to these activities, Steve has been an assistant editor for the student newspaper, a member of the yearbook staff and active in the student government.

STEVE HARVEY

Gwen Turner has been an active participant in virtually every type of organized student activity while at USCS. A Dean's list student, she has served as secretary of the Student Government Association and as a class senator. She was one of the early members of our christian fellowship group, Universal Love. In addition, Gwen has worked on the yearbook staff and with the Shoestring Players. In all these activities, however, Gwen Turner has never sought the spotlight, or top billing. She has been willing to contribute in a supporting role, giving generously of her time and energy to her fellow students and to her university.

GWEN TURNER

GRADUATION

1980

More than 300 May and December graduates received their degrees this year.

Highlights of the commencement ceremonies included the recognition of Dr. Bill Bruce, the 1979-80 USCS Teacher of the Year and the presentation of the prestigious Algernon Sullivan Awards, as well as the conferring of an honorary doctorate on Dr. Jones, who steered the university system through an unprecedented period of growth during the turbulent 1960's. Now Vice President for Research at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. Jones was President of USC from 1962 through 1974. During those twelve years, enrollment in the system grew from 7,295 to more than 26,000. Almost $60,000,000 in new construction was completed during his tenure.

Dr. Jones was a strong believer in a multi-campus USC system, and he played a key role in the establishment of USCS in 1967. When he spoke at his first commencement address at USCS in 1972, the campus was primarily a nursing school with less than 700 students. He is returning to a four-year campus with more than 2400 undergraduates.

EPILOGUE

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

FS

When faced with writing an epilogue, the same trite things that many other editors have said holds true for me also—the late nights spent in the yearbook office, the many hours spent drawing layouts, the agony of writing copy, and the stupendous joy one feels when the end is in sight. Yet, for me, there was much, much more.

You see, I loved doing it. When the editorship of the Carolana was "dumped" into my lap after the original editor resigned, I felt challenged. I had very little experience working on a yearbook, so I had to learn everything on-the-job. I quickly learned what pressure was—cropping pictures, making copy fit that little space, meeting deadlines, getting no vacation, watching others parade tans acquired while I was working on the yearbook, being nasty to people because they did not want their pictures when I needed them, and begging professors to give me an extra day on a term paper because I had a yearbook deadline the day before. But you know, I learned something. I learned that if I just tried hard enough I could do just about anything I wanted to. I'm really going to miss USCS—the yearbook, SGA, Shoestring Players, clubs, and faculty. But most of all, I'm going to miss the people who gave my life meaning, and showed me that they cared for me and were behind me all the way.

I hope that next year, Lynn too, will have these remarkable people behind her. Having such a great staff as Tony, Rhonda, Susan, Ken, Beth, and Lynn, and having such a warm, understanding boyfriend as Tony, good things can indeed be accomplished with just a little help and friendship.

Graduation is just one step away. I really dread leaving good 'ole USCS. I feel secure here, knowing that I have warm, caring friends. But the rest of life is just around the corner. As I challenged USCS as a freshman, I must challenge the rest of life as I meet it. I and everyone else must always remember to say

"Where to, what next?"
